Team Project Events

Team Project Events (TPEs) are an opportunity for groups and teams to participate in a combination of traditional teambuilding activities and a community service project. The TPE will consist of the following:

- The group takes part in a brief, energizing set of experiential team building activities. The goal of this segment of the event is to introduce the group to one another, teach a few techniques for effective communication, and set the tone for the day - teamwork.
- Following the team building segment, the group will split up into small Project Management teams. Each PM Team will be responsible for one part of the overall Team Project - one team might be cutting wood for the floorboards of a shed, while another team is clearing and leveling the ground for the laying of the foundation. Each team does their part, and the teams together produce the finished project.
- Throughout the day, the group will come together and check-in with their progress. It is important for the teams to be communicating their needs and their limitations in order for the group as a whole to be effective. When one team is stalled because of a lack of resources, another team can step in and lend a hand. In this way, the group as a whole is able to support the individuals within it.
- Following the actual construction or maintenance project, the group will come together for a good meal and a debrief of the day. During this extended discussion, individuals will share their experiences and insights, providing a powerful culmination to a day of incredible effort by a dedicated team.
